

Cable Management Stand Adjustment

Overview

It's best if you consider standing desk cable management when you purchase your new equipment. However, if you've had it all set up for a while, now you can start over and ensure that it's done correctly. Disconnect everything, including printers, monitors, towers, and other equipment you may have. These can include fans for comfort. You must learn how to cable manage a desk correctly. A key part of the sit-stand desk cable management puzzle is the positioning of the power strip. Your natural tendency is probably to plug it into the first power outlet you can find and add all the plug-ins you need. However, you should focus on positioning the surge protector strategically. Some desks may already have built-in management features. However, if not, you can learn how to cable manage a desk. Most of the time, though, standing desks don't have built-in under-desk cable management solutions. This doesn't mean you can't come up with ways to handle standing desk cable management on your own. If you choose to mount your monitors over the wall of the desk, this can save space and help with standing desk cable management. However, you may need to figure out how to lower and raise the monitors so that they work regardless of whether you're sitting or standing. The best way to deal with this is to hide the cables behind (in) the wall. And now that you have everything required and know what you have, it's time to reconnect everything. You have your under-desk cable management solutions ready. Now is the time to put your computer/laptop, monitors, and everything else on your desk. Position them where you want them to be, so that's all done. Now, you should start reconnecting each of them.
